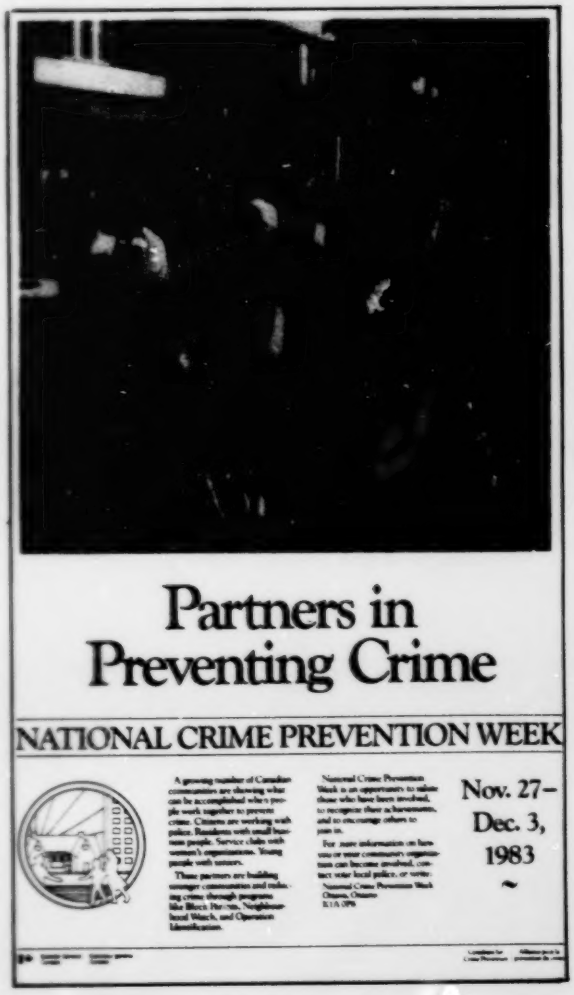
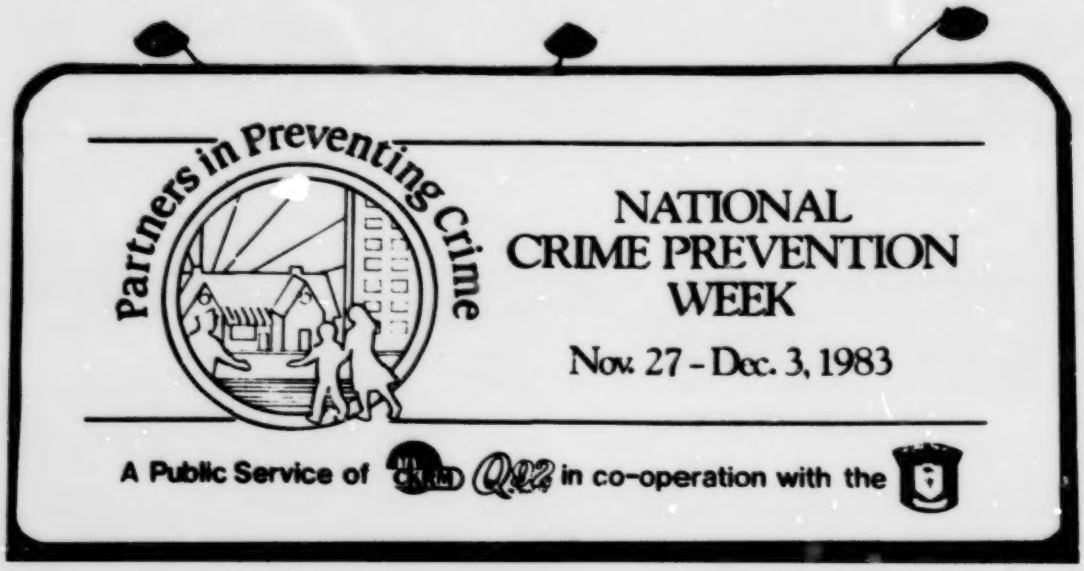
National Crime Prevention Week

Early in the year the Honourable Robert Kaplan, Solicitor General of Canada unveiled plans for a National Crime Prevention Week to be held from November 27th to December 3rd, 1983 and appointed a Committee called "Canadians for Prevention of Crime" to assist in promoting the week and the theme of "Partners in the Prevention of Crime" across Canada. In addition the Solicitor General implemented and awarded a number of plaques across Canada honouring those individuals or organizations for their contribution to crime prevention. CK Television in Regina was the recipient of the only plaque awarded in Saskatchewan. On November 3rd the Solicitor General organized a breakfast in Ottawa to officially kick-off Crime Prevention Week. Our Executive Director was in attendance.

Crime Stoppers Program

This program was implemented in Moose Jaw on January 27, 1984 and in Regina on January 31, 1984. The objective of this program is to obtain information from the public leading to the conviction of the guilty party. By remaining anonymous, the informant will not feel reluctant to divulge information leading to the arrest of the offender. When calls are received, the caller is given a number. This number serves as a means of identification and ensures the confidentiality of the informant's identity. If the information is correct, a reward is paid.





The Commission, working closely with all police forces and members of the Minister of Justice staff co-ordinated and assisted with a number of programs and initiatives for National Crime Prevention Week through the province which was highlighted by an Awards Luncheon hosted by the Minister of Justice in Regina on November 28th, 1983 at which time the following individuals and organizations were publicly recognized with an appropriate framed certificate for their significant contribution to crime prevention in the Province of Saskatchewan:

Crime Prevention Week was an unqualified success and it is anticipated that it will be a continuing program in future years.

As part of the Federal Crime Prevention initiative the Ministry of the Solicitor General has compiled and issued three publications on community-based crime prevention. The documents were developed to meet the need of crime prevention practitioners and community leaders for concise and systematic guidelines on how to carry out crime prevention programs in Canada.

The first publication, Working Together to Prevent Crime — A Practitioner's Handbook, is for crime prevention specialists from the criminal justice system and from the private sector to use to promote the concept of community-based crime prevention and to plan, implement, and evaluate effective crime prevention programs. You may already have received the second publication, The Good Neighbours Crime Prevention Handbook. This handbook was designed for use by community, business and professional associations to promote interest in community-based crime prevention and to provide guidelines on how to set up programs. The third document, the Good Neighbours — Working Together to Prevent Crime brochure, provides information to citizens on the importance of crime prevention and explains how they can participate.
